The longest day of the year has come and gone. We're on the downside and heading toward winter now. We should take advantage of the nice weather that is left and go on a tour. At the very least take your car for a ride whenever you can. Thanks to Lee White and Phyllis Pease for their hospitality in hosting our June club meeting. We are all looking forward to the Poker Run, even though I never win.

Bob Green has a great tour planned for August. Can't wait to see you there. Have an AOOOGA Day!

2017 August Tour Information

Bob and Cindy Green will host the tour on Sunday, August 27, 2017.

The August Tour will begin behind Burger King, just north of I 275 and US Route 27 \(Colerain Ave.\).

We will meet @ 9:45 and leave @ 10:15. The tour begins with a 17 mile trip through the countryside to the Fernald Preserve outside of Ross, Ohio. A light snack will be available while at the museum. We have secured a speaker to tell us about the history of the site, and what has been done to secure its future and our environment. We will spend approximately 2 hours here. The museum is Air Conditioned!! (Sorry, NO PETS ALLOWED ON THE PROPERTY)

We will then tour through the countryside in Butler County on our way to the Millville Restaurant. The owners are remaining open for our group past their normal business hours. The menu includes Burgers, Sandwiches, Roast Beef and Ham Dinners. She said she would make her Special for us which is Homemade Beef and Noodles. Homemade Pie is also on the menu. (Hey, this place is also Air Conditioned!)

We will then leave the restaurant and proceed to the Venice Antique Mall in Ross, Ohio. Officially the tour will end at this location and allow everyone to decide if shopping is their thing (its Air Conditioned!). Or, maybe an Ice Cream Cone at Flubbs down the street is a better idea for you. Either way you will be close to US Route 27 that will take you to the Northgate area where the tour started. We will require a head count so we can plan the needed snacks, and the restaurant owner needs to know how much food to try to plan for. Please call me @ 513-313-0078 to let me know if you are planning to attend.

Hope to see you there!

The Mysterious Cut-Out and its function

The Cut-Out

By Tom Endy

The Model A Ford generator cut-out is the mysterious little device that sits on top of the generator. There is a switch inside that is either open or closed. Its very simple purpose is to connect and disconnect the generator from the battery and the rest of the electrical circuit. In the days before there were generator regulator circuits the cut-out was a means to connect the generator to the car's electrical circuit when the engine was running, and disconnect it when the engine was not running.

When the generator is not rotating and producing electrical power its stopped condition would be a drain on the battery. Therefore the cut-out switch is commanded to open.

When the generator is rotating and producing electrical power the desire is to have the generator connected the car's battery and electrical system. It then carries the load of any electrical device that is switched on and it also charges the battery. Therefore the cut-out switch is commanded closed.

How it does this is where the mystery comes in. Anytime you pass current through a coil of wires it creates magnetism and magnetism is what opens and closes the switch. Inside the cut-out housing, in addition to the switch, are two coils of wire. The two coils open and close the switch much like a relay operates.

The switch contacts inside the cut-out are normally open. The first coil has a very fine gauge wire and is connected in parallel with the generator. As soon as the generator starts rotating it begins to produce voltage and current flows through the coil. The faster the generator rotates the higher the voltage level rises. When it reaches a set point above the battery voltage (a nominal 7 volts) the magnetism in the coil is strong enough to close the switch. The generator is then connected to the car's battery and electrical system.

The second coil is a very heavy gauge wire and is connected in series with the generator. The coil wire has to be heavy because all the current produced by the generator flows through this series coil. It too produces magnetism that is in concert with the first coil. The combined magnetism of the two coils keeps the switch closed.

When the engine speed returns to idle or is turned off the generator slows or stops it is no longer producing voltage. The battery then takes over the load and current through the series coil reverses. The magnetism of this coil is also reversed and is stronger than the parallel coil and it cancels it out and opens the switch.
